If over 150 years of postseason drama wasn't enough for Major League Baseball, the Wild Card Game has provided plenty of heart-stopping moments for fans living and dying with every moment that comes with the one-game playoff. For the third time since 2015, the Yankees are hosting the do-or-die matchup. As the winner will continue on to the ALDS to meet the Boston Red Sox, continue on inside to find out more.

WELCOME TO
METRO.USFEDS ARREST 4 MEN IN CONNECTION TO VA RALLY

Four men linked to a white supremacist group were arrested on Tuesday in connection with the white nationalist rally that turned deadly in Charlottesville, Virginia, last year, authorities said. They were arrested in California and were to be transported to Charlottesville after making initial appearances in federal courts in California on Tuesday, U.S. Attorney Thomas Cullen said at a news conference. U.S. Justice Department officials said the men had traveled from California to incite a riot and bring violence to the August 2017 rally in the Virginia college town. They said the men were part of an organized, militant white supremacist group, named in the criminal complaint as the "Rise Above Movement." Each man faces 10 years in prison if found guilty, according to authorities. Cullen said he expected a trial could start as soon as the end of the year. Authorities decided the men's alleged activities could be prosecuted under a federal statute on riots, instead of laws prohibiting hate crimes, but Cullen said there may be other charges against them.

FACEBOOK SAYS HACKERS
DID NOT ACCESS SITES

Facebook Inc. said on Tuesday that investigators have determined that hackers did not access other sites that use the social-networking site's single sign-on in a massive cyberattack that the company disclosed last week. "We analyzed third-party access during the time of the attack we have identified. That investigation has found no evidence that the attackers accessed any apps using Facebook Login," said Guy Rosen, a Facebook vice president overseeing security, in a statement sent to Reuters. The announcement comes after Facebook last week disclosed its worst-ever security breach, saying hackers had stolen login codes that allowed them to access nearly 50 million Facebook accounts. Rosen warned on a Friday conference call that the hackers could have also accessed third-party websites and apps that allow users to access their accounts using Facebook logins. Security researchers with the Univ. of Illinois at Chicago estimate that more than 42,000 websites allow customers to access their accounts with Facebook Login, an estimate that prompted concern the attack on the social-networking site could reverberate across the internet.

APPLE HARVEST IN KASHMIR

3 Laborers carry boxes of apples in an orchard during harvesting season on Monday in Tral, south of Srinagar, the summer capital of Indian-administered Kashmir. Apple harvest is at its peak, but farmers are saying that the prices this year have slumped in major markets across India. Adding to their disadvantage are the rising freight rates of the truckers who ferry them to Indian markets. Kashmir's orchards produce 1.2 million tons of apples annually, the second-largest harvest in India. About 800,000 tons of the produce is exported to other parts of India and the rest consumed locally. Kashmiri apples have gained popularity across the globe for their unique yet delicious taste. The valley boasts around 113 varieties of Kashmiri apples.

PREZ: 'SCARY TIME' FOR MEN FALSELY ACCUSED

4 President Donald Trump said on Tuesday allegations of sexual misconduct against his U.S. Supreme Court nominee Brett Kavanaugh showed that "it's a very scary time for young men in America" who now may be presumed guilty even when innocent. Five days after an extraordinary Senate hearing watched by millions of people in which a university professor, Christine Blasey Ford, detailed her sexual assault allegation against Kavanaugh, Trump seemed to raise the issue of false accusations against men.

The fight over Kavanaugh's nomination to a lifetime job on the top U.S. court comes against the backdrop of the #MeToo movement fighting sexual harassment and assault that has toppled a succession of powerful men. Under pressure from moderate fellow Republicans, Trump on Friday ordered an FBI investigation lasting up to a week into the allegations against his nominee. Trump told reporters on Tuesday he thought the conservative federal appeals court judge would win Senate confirmation once the FBI finishes its investigation.

CHICAGO COP DEFENDS
SHOOTING OF BLACK TEEN

5 The white Chicago police officer who shot to death a black teenager in 2014 told jurors at his murder trial on Tuesday that he felt threatened when he opened fire, as he took the witness stand in his own defense. Jason Van Dyke, 40, is accused of shooting 17-year-old Laquan McDonald 16 times and faces charges of first-degree murder, aggravated battery and official misconduct in a case that has focused attention on race relations and policing in the third-largest U.S. city. He is the first Chicago police officer to face a murder charge for an on-duty incident in decades. Wiping tears away at times, Van Dyke testified that McDonald "never stopped" advancing toward Van Dyke, getting about 10 to 15 feet away from him. "His face had no expression," Van Dyke said under questioning from his lawyer. "His eyes were buggin' out." McDonald waved his knife and was still holding the knife when he fell to the ground, Van Dyke said, adding that he shot at the knife. Van Dyke said he did not know how many shots he fired at the time and stopped shooting when McDonald fell.

Defend, Detect and Repel

Part three of a three-part series on cybersecurity for small business

Fighting back: How small businesses can detect, respond and recover from a cyberattack

Even though 78% of cyberattacks are aimed at small businesses, only 15% of them have a plan to deal with an attack. (Verizon Enterprise, 2018; Better Business Bureau, 2017)

This explains why small business cyberattacks can be so devastating. Losing money and data can be compounded by loss of reputation, customers and intellectual property.

"They might pay in a ransomware attack and still not get their data back," says Megan Wright, a Technology Advisor with Dell Small Business. "Small businesses can just get wiped out."

Before an attack: Back up data and keep the network secure.

Many cyberattacks are aimed squarely at your data. In ransomware attacks, data is held hostage for a cash payment. In other cases, hackers may be after customer data or account numbers.

Wright encourages all small businesses to back up all critical data. A strong backup plan involves:

- Automation: Make sure critical data is identified and backed up regularly.
- Redundancy: Ideally you will have local and cloud backups.
- Isolation: Backups should be sequestered from the main network.

- Accessibility: Someone should know how to access the backup.

Businesses need to practice good basic security as well: strong passwords, the latest laptops equipped with security-enhancing 8th gen Intel® Core™ i5 vPro™ processors and hardware login security like TPM 2.0 (Trusted Platform Module), fingerprint readers and facial recognition, and installing anti-virus and firewall solutions. Small businesses should also assign someone responsibility for information security.

During an attack: Detect, report and react

The first rule is don't panic. The second is to act fast. The employee tasked with security should immediately track down, isolate and remove the infection, or bring in someone who can.

Since many attacks come through email and the web, all employees should be trained to spot and report them.

"I tell small businesses, security doesn't just come from me as a technology advisor," says Wright. "It has to be a priority for the entire business."

Employees also need to be on the lookout for financial scams, like urgent orders to transfer money supposedly from business leaders. "Make it a policy to be over-cautious," Wright says.

After an attack: Getting back on your feet

A business with a solid incident response plan will be able to recover much faster than one that needs to rebuild.

"Remove affected devices and files and swap in your clean backup files," Wright said. "Depending on the level of the attack, you might also bring it to the authorities."

Small businesses need to make sure they secure the trust of their customers. "Your customers are why you exist," said Wright. "They trust you with their data. That is worth all the protection you can give it."

Five steps to take before and during a cyberattack

Back up everything beforehand:

A safe, uninfected data backup is critical to recovery.

Don't panic: Plan ahead of time and train your team.

Check on your backup and keep it secure:

When an attack happens, ensure the backup is safe.

Make your network secure:

Remove affected devices and files and close the breach.

Get back on your feet:

When appropriate alert affected parties and swap in your backup.

Love, Bleecker reimagines historic street with art, commerce and culture

The joint effort by Skylight and Brookfield Properties is “a love letter to the city from Bleecker Street.”

NIKKI M. MASCALI
nikki.mascali@metro.us

Many argue New York City has lost some of its je ne sais quoi in recent years due to overdevelopment, high rents and gentrification. Bleecker Street is just one example. Once one of the city's most creative veins, it's now dotted with empty storefronts and missing some of its legendary vibe. However, a new initiative called Love, Bleecker hopes to turn the tide.

Love, Bleecker is a joint effort between Brookfield Properties and Skylight, the creative strategy and development firm behind destinations like Skylight at Moynihan Station and Skylight Clarkson Sq in St. John's Terminal.

The yearlong initiative will reimagine Bleecker Street by intersecting art, commerce and culture to offer a collective of retailers and creatives sharing shops along its western corridor.

“We curated the correct mix of tenants and artists that made sense to revitalize the street, not only to bring in new energy but also consider its history and legacy and think of those ways we can evoke the sentiments of that environment in a contemporary context,” Chelsea

Mullen of Skylight said. “This project is seen as a love letter to the city from Bleecker Street.”

Four of the seven planned Love, Bleecker storefronts are open, including the first-ever brick-and-mortar for fashion designer Prabal Gurung.

“To have a hand in reimagining Bleecker and helping to breathe life back into such an iconic street is an absolute honor,” Gurung said. “It's about collaborating with like-minded brands and concepts that love and appreciate everything this historic street has stood for.”

The dramatically designed shop at 367/369 Bleecker is offset by Gurung's signature pops of color and a light installation from Edward Ross of Eyesight.

At 350 Bleecker is Slightly Alabama, Dana Glaeser's leather goods brand, where in addition to his made-in-house wares (and his French bulldog, Sheffield), you'll find items from 15 brands of a similar aesthetic, along with Chelsea Browne's window treatments made of hand-cut paper. The site will also feature programming with partners Rolling Stone magazine and Third Street Music School Settlement.

At 384 Bleecker is Bonberi & Fleurotica, offering floral artistry by Robin Rose's Fleurotica, a plant-based bodega from Nicole Berrie's Bonberi, and Signe Pierce's incandescent neon-floral window sculptures.

Next door at 382 Bleecker is Skylight's rotating gallery space, which currently features walls where the public can write its own love letters to Bleecker Street, the Village or the city.

Love, Bleecker isn't just indoors. Joya Studio has created a signature outdoor scent; Alexa Meade designed vibrant tree wraps; and there will be weekly buskers courtesy of Rolling Stone.

“We want to create moments of pause when people are walking down the street instead of looking at vacant storefronts,” Mullen said.

Here's why social media depresses you, according to Kanye (and actual experts)

A recent study found that Instagram had the worst impact on teen's mental health, followed closely by Snapchat and Twitter. ISTOCK

Social-media moguls like Twitter's Jack Dorsey are taking seriously the detrimental impact social media has on people's mental health.

ANNA HARSTEDT
letters@metro.us

Would you be happier using social media if you no longer had to worry about getting any new followers? Or tons of likes and comments? Rapper Kanye West recently spoke out about the detrimental effect of social media on its users, and research backs up his concern with teens taking the brunt of the pressure.

Rates of anxiety, depression and other mental health issues among teens have risen 70 percent in the past 25 years, according to recent research by The Royal Society for Public Health in the U.K. According to those health experts, the constant use of social media by teens is one of the reasons for the struggle.

The study, called "#StatusOfMind," showed that Instagram, followed closely by Snapchat and Twitter, had the worst impact on teens' mental health.

"Social media is a filtered, curated portrayal of our peers' lives and a sharp contrast to actual life," Titania Jordan, chief parenting officer of Bark, told Metro. "Photos of your friends have been airbrushed to add tans, blur cellulite and remove stretch marks. This generation is feeling the brunt of 'the comparison trap' [the daily temptation to compare yourself with others] without being given the necessary perspective to see the entire picture."

Modern social-media culture has created a pressure cooker for teens in which the number of likes or followers they receive on their posts define their identities. Getting more likes and new followers lead to the feeling of appreciation and validation, causing teens to constantly seek more and more.

"Getting a like or a new follower stimulates the same part of your brain as sugar, sex or drugs," Jordan said. "Social media addiction is real, and these networks know it."

Is Kanye onto something?

The outspoken rapper and heavy social media user is calling for an end to this dark side of social media culture and claims to have been in contact with the heads of Instagram, Snapchat, and Twitter to figure out ways to end the constant stress of chasing likes, comments and followers among teens.

"There are people who are committing suicide due to not getting enough likes. Seeking validation in the simulation," West shared recently, and ironically, on Twitter. "I personally want to participate in social media with the option of not having to show my followers or likes," West said.

West believes if social media platforms had the option of hiding the number of followers or likes, users would be better off.

"Having your amount of likes on display for the world to see and judge is like showing how much money you have in the bank..." he said.

West shared the conversation that he had with Jack Dorsey, the CEO and one of the founders of Twitter, and with Ben Schwerin, Snapchat's head of partnerships. They both appeared to agree with West's criticism.

Dorsey reiterated West's concern, saying, "We've been thinking deeply about the follower and like counts, and what that incentivizes. We want to change. What made sense 12 years ago doesn't make sense today."

Studies have also shown that there are negative effects to taking selfies, especially when users apply "beautifying selfie apps" like Snapchat to edit their pictures.

"What we see with selfie culture is the editing and re-editing of identity." And that is a dangerous game to play," Dr. Linda Papadopoulos told Teen Vogue. Making matters worse is the emergence of so-called Snapchat Dysmorphia, a psychological affliction that is similar to body dysmorphia. The disorder is brought on by the use of Snapchat filters that users believe improve physical appearance. Those who suffer from Snapchat dysmorphia are said to go so far as to seek plastic surgery to look more Insta-worthy.

So would quitting social media make you happier? While there is no definitive answer, signs seem to point to yes for Fanny Moell. The 19-year-old told Metro she feels down when her social media posts don't get as much interaction as she'd hoped.

"I often feel that I don't have enough followers or likes," said Moell, a student at Parsons School of Design and living in Brooklyn. "When I don't receive the amount of likes or comments that I wanted I immediately feel insecure and starts to feel bad about myself, sometimes I even delete the picture. There's a kind of status in having many likes or followers. It shows that people like you."

STATS

- 91% of 16 to 24-year-olds use the web for social networking.
- Social media can be more addictive than cigarettes and even alcohol.
- Rates of anxiety and depression in young people have risen 70% in 25 years.
- Social media use is linked with increased rates of anxiety, depression and poor sleep.
- 7 in 10 young people say they've endured cyberbullying.

"[Snapchat] was never about vanity metrics defining who they are, or their self-worth," Schwerin told West in a text, which the rapper later made public. "I think constantly comparing yourself to others' 'perfect' lives and feeling like you're in a perpetual popularity contest can be a very negative experience."

The 10 best New York City neighborhoods for bookworms

October is National Book Month, so StreetEasy looked into the best New York City neighborhoods for book lovers.

KRISTIN TOUSSAINT
kristin.toussaint@metro.us

New York is a literary hub, that's for sure, but are some NYC neighborhoods better for bookworms than others? That's the question StreetEasy aimed to answer with its latest report.

October is National Book Month and in celebration, real estate site StreetEasy took a look at the best New York City neighborhoods for book lovers.

What makes an area stand out in this way amongst all NYC neighborhoods? It's not about literary hangouts or authors' homes. The ranking for the list is a bit more practical to New York readers: StreetEasy broke down which New York City neighborhoods are home to the most bookstores and libraries.

The number of libraries per neighborhood came from New York City open data on library branches, StreetEasy explained, and the bookstore tally was totaled using data provided by Yelp. The index also shares the median asking rent in these New York City neighborhoods, so you can judge if it's worth the cost to be in such close proximity to all those books.

"The neighborhoods that made our list comprise the areas that are closest to the largest amount of bookstores and public libraries, making them relatively good places for residents who prioritize easy access to book-friendly amenities,"

The Corner Bookstore on the Upper East Side GETTY IMAGES

said StreetEasy Data Analyst Nancy Wu. "It didn't surprise us that these neighborhoods are also situated near convenient public transportation options and other points of interest like parks or coffee shops, which can be great places for bibliophiles to spend a quiet afternoon getting lost in a new book."

StreetEasy said this neighborhood ranking was inspired by its partnership with Books on the Subway and five local bookstores for National Book Month.

Throughout October, "book ninjas" will leave books on the New York City subway for anyone to take home and read, with the hopes that the reader put it back in a subway station or train when they're finished for another straphanger to enjoy.

Books on the Subway has been providing New Yorkers with train reads since 2013, but StreetEasy says this National Book Month will have the biggest book drops in the program's history. The StreetEasy collaboration will allow Books on the Subway to provide five times its usual amount of books to straphangers, the site said, so even if you don't live in one of the best New York City neighborhoods for bookworms, you might still be able to find some novels near you.

Doctors Urge Knee Pain Sufferers

“Don’t Get ANY Surgery Until You See This...”

After Years Of Intense Study, NYC Medical Clinic Finally Reveals It’s Best “Treatment Formula” For Helping Knee Arthritis Sufferers... Especially When So Many Other Treatments Have Failed

NEW YORK CITY - If you are even remotely interested in discovering how the latest scientific discoveries can possibly help your knee pain... then this is going to be the most exciting information you ever read.

Here is why: Knee pain can not only be brutal... it’s complex. In other words, it’s not a simple, easy fix.

But I’m sure you already know that. Or you wouldn’t be reading this.

That’s the bad news.

Now for some good news...

Over the years, NYC Pain MD has treated countless knee pain sufferers. And in that time have been able to constantly improve.

And we have come up with a treatment formula that we have found works best and helps the most patients.

This formula has reduced or even eliminated the pain in many. Some were scheduled for knee replacement surgery and felt good enough to cancel their surgery.

It’s amazing when patients who were once in excruciating pain... start feeling better. And start walking again. And playing golf. Or tennis. And finally getting their lives back.

Especially when they had gone to other doctors and tried so many other things.

So many had given up hope.

Sound familiar? If it does... check this out...

The Treatment Formula

While I can’t give you the entire treatment formula here (there is not enough space and WAY too complicated) I can give you the basics. And more important... I can tell you what it might be able to do for YOU.

The first and most important part of the formula is: PATIENT SELECTION.

This means, NYC Pain MD has a detailed screening process to tell who is most likely to be helped by their treatments... and who is not.

If you qualify, you have the opportunity to move forward and experience the worldclass treatments that NYC Pain MD offers.

If you do not, NYC Pain MD will tell you what they think your best options are and help you find the right doctor for you.

NYC Pain MD “Treatment Formula” A protocol of advanced medical treatments that has already helped thousands.

If you qualify, NYC Pain MD offers some of the most advanced medical treatments available today all using the most advanced imaging technology including:

- Viscosupplementation (gel injections)
- Platelet Rich Plasma (PRP)
- Stem Cell Therapy (Lipogems)
- Genicular Knee Block
- And more.

Once again, there is not enough space to go into detail about all these procedures... but here are some things you MUST KNOW...

Viscosupplementation is where a doctor introduces a gel-like medicine directly into the joint space. This helps to lubricate the joints often relieving some, most or even all of your pain. Results can last for 6 months to several years.

Many have had these treatments without good results. However, NYC Pain MD feels this is because doctors often do these “gel injections” without advanced imaging to guide them. Research shows they will often miss the joint. If the joint is missed... it is impossible for the treatment to work.

NYC Pain MD has spared no expense and used advanced imaging to guide the injections assuring the medicine gets into the joint. We frequently get results when this treatment was a failure done elsewhere.

The second thing you must know is... our treatment plans are custom made for every patient. And we have all these treatments offered in the same place. Many times you will get the best results from multiple treatments. At NYC Pain MD your doctors will all be there and will all know each other and you and your case. They work together and give you the best treatments and care without you having to go anywhere else.

The ability to select the right patients and then have the potential to give them any or all of these treatments... with all the necessary medical technology... under one roof... has allowed NYC Pain MD to get better results than they thought possible.

Here’s What You Should Do Next

If you suffer with knee pain... and any of this made sense to you... NYC Pain MD would like to offer you a No-cost screening. That screening is the first step in our “Treatment Formula.”

You will get to see a doctor and ask any questions you have. Your doctor will take the first steps to see if you qualify for treatments and give you recommendations.

The best thing is... you will finally get direction. You will know what’s going on and what is your best course of action... step-by-step. The treatments will be explained in detail and you will breathe a big sigh of relief finally knowing what’s going on and what can or cannot be done.

There is so much we want to say to help you... but I’m out of space. Give us a call at 877-296-6310 and take the first step. That step is free without obligation.

Take a vintage NYC subway train to Yankees' Wild Card Game

The New York Transit Museum will run 1917 Lo-V train cars to the Yankees' Wild Card Game for the swipe of a MetroCard.

The Bronx Bombers are one of the most historic sports teams in the world, so it's fitting that some fans heading to the Yankees' Wild Card Game Wednesday have the chance to do so on a vintage NYC subway train.

The New York Transit Museum will run its 1917 Lo-V train cars to the Yankees' Wild Card Game against the Oakland Athletics for the swipe of a MetroCard.

The nostalgic NYC subway train will leave

The New York Transit Museum will run its 1917 Lo-V NYC subway cars to the Yankees' Wild Card Game against the Oakland Athletics for the swipe of a MetroCard. NEW YORK TRANSIT MUSEUM the uptown 4 platform at 42nd Street/Grand Central at approximately 7 p.m. and travel non-stop on the Lexington Avenue Line to 161st Street/Yankee Stadium.

The trip is expected to take about 35 minutes, the New York City Transit Museum said, which will get you to the stadium with more than enough time to get your snacks and take your seat before the first pitch.

The game starts at 8 p.m. The winner will face the Boston Red Sox in the AL Division Series.

"Taking the New York City subway is always a great way to get to the ballgame, and being able to travel to Yankee Stadium on the Transit Museum's vintage fleet is a special tradition for the Museum and the MTA," said New York Transit Museum Director Concetta Bencivenga. "These cars began service more than 100 years ago, and it's possible that these very same train cars carried Yankees fans to their first World Series win at the original Yankee Stadium in 1923."

SOME OTHER TIDBITS ABOUT THE NOSTALGIC NEW YORK CITY TRAINS:

- Starting in 1917, the Lo-V train cars ran on the Interborough Rapid Transit (IRT) system.
- They feature rattan seats, ceiling fans and drop sash windows and vintage ads — but no AC, digital displays or automated announcements.
- They were used for more than five decades before being retired in the 1960s.

Trump helped parents shield millions from taxes: New York Times

The Times reported Trump received the equivalent of at least $413 million.

President Donald Trump engaged in tax schemes that included cases of fraud in which he and his siblings helped their parents dodge taxes, the New York Times reported on Tuesday.

The Times investigation, which a Trump lawyer said was inaccurate, showed Trump received the equivalent today of at least $413 million from his father's real estate business. The newspaper cited a "vast trove" of confidential tax return and financial records.

The Times reported that much of that fortune came to Trump because he helped his parents evade taxes, setting up a fake corporation with his siblings to disguise millions of dollars in gifts from their parents.

During his presidential campaign, Trump promoted himself as a self-made real estate mogul who started out with only a "very small" loan from his businessman father, Fred Trump.

The White House did not immediately respond to a request for comment on the report. Reuters has not been able to verify the report.

Trump lawyer Charles Harder told the Times: "President Trump had virtually no involvement whatsoever with these matters."

Harder added: "The affairs were handled by other Trump family members who were not experts themselves and therefore relied entirely upon the aforementioned licensed professionals to ensure full compliance with the law."

The New York State Tax Department is looking into the allegations, CNBC reported, citing a spokesman for the department.

Citing tax experts, the Times reported it was unlikely Trump would face criminal prosecution because the acts were past the statute of limitations. There is no time limit, however, on civil fines for tax fraud, according to the paper.

$413 MILLION

TODAY'S EQUIVALENT OF AMOUNT TRUMP RECEIVED FROM HIS FATHER.

The Times reported that its findings were based on more than 200 tax returns from Fred Trump, his companies and various Trump partnerships and trusts. The records did not include Donald Trump's personal tax returns. Unlike other White House candidates and presidents in recent decades, Trump has declined to release his tax returns.

According to the newspaper, the report was also based on interviews with Fred Trump's former employees and advisers and more than 100,000 pages of documents describing the inner workings of his business empire.

"The investigation also draws on tens of thousands of pages of confidential records — bank statements, financial audits, accounting ledgers, cash disbursement reports, invoices and canceled checks," according to the Times.

The fight against erectile dysfunction

Don't worry. It happens.
But there are ways to stop it!
By Pat King

Many men deal with the awkward physical disability commonly known as erectile dysfunction. As a matter of fact, it may be a more common drawback for more men than you may think. According to a study conducted by the Cleveland Clinic, roughly 52 percent of men experience erectile dysfunction in their day-to-day lives, with 40 percent of men age 40 experience it and 70 percent of men age 70. So what are some ways that you can combat this ... gulp... disappointing condition that affects so many men in the bedroom?

Eat and live right

As with many ailments, erectile dysfunction can be closely related to how much you exercise and how well you eat on a daily basis.

In a nutshell — by getting the right amount of cardio during the week, you will maintain a lower blood pressure which can help you to achieve healthier erections when it matters the most.

Eating right can also contribute to lowering your blood pressure with food like dark chocolate, pistachios, and watermelon all linked to lowering cholesterol and increasing the blood flow in the right areas. Some bad news for those who like the drink a few cocktails from time to time however is that drinking to excess has historically been linked to cases of erectile dysfunction. So try to cut back if you want to see improvements down there.

The importance of a healthy diet cannot be overstated in cases of erectile dysfunction as WebMD found. It is estimated that around "35-75% of men with diabetes will experience at least some degree of erectile dysfunction during their lifetime." On top of that, men with diabetes will develop ED 10 to 15 years before men without diabetes.

Cut out the problem at the root

While many pills and contraptions have been touted as the end all be all cures of this worrisome condition, few have produced the same exciting restorative results as the ErectionWave treatment. Created by board certified urologist, Dr. David Shusterman, this new innovative treatment has taken a different approach to this issue than, say, swallowing a couple vias on a nightly basis. The most exciting aspect of this treatment is that it actually works to cure the real issues behind ED and not offering a temporary solution. By directing high frequency rays towards blood vessels that have been blocked, ErectionWave treatment will increase blood through these pathways to allow for stronger and longer lasting natural erections without the assistance of pills or useless penis pumps.

Another more direct erectile dysfunction cure is known as the Priapus Shot — or otherwise known simply as the "P-shot". This completely pain-free shot has been known to not only increase sex drive but increase the overall penis size to 3.5 centimeters. The shot gets these results by by kickstarting a man's own growth factors in his blood to recruit his body's own stem cells down to the penis causing quicker regeneration of tissue and blood vessels.

If you are interested in either of these groundbreaking treatments, make your appointment with Dr. Shusterman today by calling 212-661-0060.

The Powerful (and little known) Back Pain Treatment Used By Smart New Yorkers Who Don't Want Back Surgery or Opioid Drugs

NEW YORK CITY - A major back pain relief opportunity is at hand. But if you are interested, you must act quickly.

Here is why: Back pain ruins lives... and puzzles doctors.

You go through so many exams and tests... and treatments... and only end up suffering and frustrated.

And everyone is quick to say they have the "new breakthrough solution."

Am I right?

Well, the fact of the matter is... treating back pain is difficult. But advances in modern medical science and technology have created a treatment that has gotten great results with countless back pain sufferers who had tried everything else. Many had given up hope.

This treatment is called:

"Radiofrequency Neurotomy." RF for short. And here's how it works...

RF is a procedure that is based on the theory that blocking the nerve supply to the painful area may alleviate pain and restore function.

There are many nerves around your back or neck and one of their jobs is to sense PAIN.

Radiofrequency waves delivered to these nerves under advanced precision medical imaging to target the damaged areas... done right in their own clinic without intimidating, expensive hospitals or surgical centers ... to "block" the painful nerve flow.

Two steps in the formula are performed. First, a test or diagnostic "Block" procedure is done to determine if the procedure is going to decrease pain and improve function. If this first "test" procedure is successful, RF Neurotomy or "Radiofrequency" will be performed for longer term relief. NOT just the Treatment alone that's the key ingredient.

You see, the real secret is the formula. And that again starts with a proper screening evaluation to determine if you are a good candidate and may achieve the results you are looking forward to. This is always Step number one.

And the best part about this screening is... It's FREE

FREE screening available for powerful back pain treatment

This screening will give you so much relief just knowing what is going on... and what your best options are.

That's right. NYC Pain MD offers this first step screening at no cost to patients. The only problem is... they often get over 100 inquiries a day as they also treat almost every painful area and joint. Sometimes it's hard to get through. If you don't get through to someone when you call... keep calling... or leave a message... it will be well worth it.

But that's just the first step

After your free screening, if you qualify, the doctors will discuss the best treatment plan for you in a way that you will understand completely. Not all complex "doctor talk"...

This may be one... or a combination of the advanced medical treatments offered at NYC Pain MD.

Everything will be explained and all your questions will be answered. And even better:

You will be given all this At NO COST. NYC Pain MD doc's are not like used car salesman. They will not be giving you a sales pitch. They are doctors and will give you the best possible options to help your pain and offer to help you the best way they can. In fact, with up to 100 inquiries a day from patient's looking for relief, it's often hard to even get a treatment spot.

You should also know this: While NYC Pain MD cannot help everyone...

so many have gotten the pain relief they were looking for.

One of the reasons they offer those first step free screenings, is because it has opened the door to so many people to get help that they never would have otherwise.

At the very least, you will finally have some direction and a plan. And... whether you have the best, worst or no insurance at all, NYC Pain MD programs can be made affordable to everyone.

They do not want insurance issues... or not being rich or famous... to keep you away if you are suffering in pain.

How To Schedule Your Risk-Free No-Obligation Screening Evaluation

There is a whole lot more I could say about their treatments etc... but this space is limited and that's best left for you and the doctors to discuss in person.

So... if you are even remotely interested ... take the first step and give them a call at 877-245-9252 and ask for your free screening.

One more thing... We often get over 100 calls in a single day. For that reason, if when you call you do not get a live scheduling coordinator, make sure to leave your name, number and time of your call on our voicemail. They will get back to you as soon as possible. Again, the number to call is 877-245-9252. More info at: painmdny.com/back-pain

Jeff Bridges wants you to help him save the planet. GETTY IMAGES

Jeff Bridges is the hero we all need right now

The actor wants to inspire you to help save the world with his new film.

GREGORY WAKEMAN
Gregory.Wakeman@metro.us

The irrevocable environmental damage done to planet Earth by countries and people over the last few decades has been alarming to watch unfold for two reasons.

The first is that we have now seemingly reached the point of no return, and something truly has to be done to combat the endless issues that are threatening our planet. The second is that, far from addressing the problem, the U.S. government has tried to downplay it instead.

But while government has its role to play, Jeff Bridges believes individuals have to take responsibility if change is going to be achieved. That's exactly what he has done with "Living in the Future's Past," a documentary he narrates and produced, which sees experts from all walks of life reflecting on the environmental challenges facing the world and asking, "What kind of future do we want to live in?"

"I don't think we can wait for this top-down answer to the problem," Bridges explains. "We as individuals have to look at what we can do and not so much just make a little contribution of $10 or $20 to some organization that scratches the guilt itch."

"Try to really engage personally with it and think what you can do that is particular to your strengths. Don't count on the government," he adds. "One of my biggest concerns is that oil is such a precious, toxic gift that we have on this planet."

"It's not that we shouldn't be using oil, it's that we should be using it to create a different energy system."

What has Bridges done himself to try and fight the problem, though?

"My father, Lloyd Bridges, had this TV series back in the '60s called 'Seafront.' He was very interested in the ocean and the health of the sea. I am very much interested in that as well," he says.

"Over the years I have been involved in a lot of different organizations that are heading in that direction. One of those organizations is the Plastic Pollution Coalition, which is getting us off plastic water bottles and plastic straws.

"We have addicted ourselves to plastic," Bridges adds. "It is a convenience, but with a long view, they say this stuff is biodegradable but it is not. There is a big movement to get rid of plastic straws. I, personally, a few months ago started using pasta straws. Which are great!"

But while Bridges was keen to get involved and help with "Living in the Future's Past," he wanted to make sure during his initial discussions with director Susan Kucera that, unlike its peers, the documentary would be more in-depth, well-rounded and actually provide an idea of where we came from and how we can all assist with this crisis.

"We didn't need another doomsday film that talked about the enormity of the problem. I wanted to bring something new to the party, a new way of looking at it," says Bridges.

"We wanted to look at evolution, why we are wired the way we are. I love our planet and I am concerned about the direction scientists are saying it is heading."

"Living in the Future's Past" opens in theaters Oct. 5.

Taran Killam on why 'Single Parents' isn't a traditional family show

Taran Killam stars in the new ABC sitcom "Single Parents." RICHARD CARTWRIGHT / ABC

The "SNL" alum is back on the small screen with the new ABC sitcom.

ANDREW HUSBAND
letters@metro.us

With "Single Parents," the new ABC comedy from "New Girl" alums Elizabeth Meriwether and J.J. Philbin, former "Saturday Night Live" cast member Taran Killam is yet again part of an ensemble.

The thing is, the actor doesn't seem to mind at all.

"It's definitely a different gear to play the same character week after week, and now we're heading into our ninth week," he says from the set. "That feels new to me. It's a new experience, but I'm really enjoying that aspect. The writers are so smart and good at what they do, and even more to their credit, they're very open and collaborative. If we have ideas or jokes that we want to try out, they're all for it."

Killam plays Will Cooper, a single father who devotes his life entirely to his daughter Sophie, played by Marlow Barkley. Leighton Meester, Brad Garrett, Kimrie Lewis and Jake Choi round out the cast of fellow single parents, who reluctantly take Will under their wing following a disastrous morning session in their children's classroom.

It's a fun, lighthearted show, and much like "New Girl" and "SNL" before it, the ensemble is what makes it shine. This is especially true of Barkley and the other young actors who, in a way, comprise an ensemble all their own. And as Killam attests, working with them on "Single Parents" is one of the most unique aspects of the series.

"I had never worked with kid actors this much before in this sort of long-term capacity, but I do feel that we've been incredibly fortunate to have not only the most talented kid actors, but also the nicest," he says.

"They're who people are going to tune in to watch the show for, because they're so funny and good," adds Killam. "This isn't a traditional family show, where you have the high school brother, the middle school sister and the precocious young one. They're all around the same age. They're creating their own community, and that's very unique. You don't often see that."

In other words, the comedy ensemble nature of "Single Parents" is actually twofold, with the parents and their children comprising two different groups. Whenever they interact, however, the comedy that ensues is as funny as it is delightful.

Toward the conclusion of the premiere episode, Will performs a song from the Disney film "Moana" over the phone with Sophie. It's a lovely scene that, along with tugging at the audience's heartstrings, also dives into the comedy whenever appropriate (like when Garrett's Douglas Fegerty joins in). But it also displays Killam and Barkley's rapport.

"She blows me away daily," he boasts, not unlike a proud father. "I'm just unbelievably impressed with her, but she's also able to be very present. I think that's her biggest skillset, because I'm coming from a comedy background in which I like to be loose and improvisational. Not only can she keep up, but she'll give her own input. It's really made for an organic father-daughter relationship in the show."

"Single Parents" airs Wednesdays at 9:30 p.m. on ABC.

A playground for big kids

Inside the $2 million revamp that turned Slate into the venue owner Aristotle Hatzigeorgiou wanted all along.

EVA KIS
eva.kis@metro.us

Eighteen years after he opened Slate, Aristotle Hatzigeorgiou finally has the adult playground he's always wanted — complete with a 20-foot slide that gets you from the clubby restaurant on the ground floor to the sprawling basement game room below.

It was, understandably, the most essential of all the changes that the recently completed $2 million renovation brought, the first makeover the venue has had since opening in 2000. Hatzigeorgiou had first seen an indoor slide at an East Village apartment while being shown a transparent pool table someone was hoping he'd put in Slate.

Three lanes of bowling have joined pool tables, foosball, Skee-Ball and ping-pong in Slate's game room. PROVIDED

"This is about 10 years ago, and the first thing I see is this slide, and I'm like, 'Forget about the pool table, let's talk about this slide,'" he recalls. "I tried doing it back then, but the company I was talking to couldn't figure it out. Finally, I hired the right engineers and designers."

These kinds of retro touches are what have made Slate NY an interesting hybrid on the crowded New York City nightlife scene. Best described by Hatzigeorgiou as "not a one-trick pony," it's an upscale clubstaurant with live performances, a sports bar with 100 screens, and a giant arcade in the basement.

Take the slide down and you'll find yourself in an updated game room whose pool tables, foosball, Skee-Ball and ping-pong have been joined by a private karaoke room and three bowling lanes. "Bowling is something

This slide from the ground floor to the game room has been 10 years in the making.

where you can get physical that people of all ages from 5 to 50 can do," he says. "Families come during the day on Saturdays and Sundays, so it appeals to all demographics." Add kid-friendly afternoon hangout to that list of pony tricks.

Also included in the makeover is a Be Your Own Bartender self-serve drink station with 20 taps, including beers, wines and cocktails. The menu has always been a point of pride at Slate, and the new dishes by chef Darryl Harmon feature street food with a twist like Philly cheesesteak arepas, trendy avocado hummus served with plantain chips, and novelties like Maryland Crab Cake Pops.

All of these changes come from trends Hatzigeorgiou is seeing across the entertainment scene as CEO of the Lure Group — and as a father constantly trying to get his kids to put down their phones.

"People more and more want to engage with other people and be in more of a social environment, because we're so focused on our screens and our work," he says. "People are not wanting to go to sit in stuffy restaurants and not have some sort of entertainment factor."

Yanks turn to Sevy to save season

The struggling righty will take the mound vs. the A's tonight.

JOE PANTORNO
joseph.pantorno@metro.us

A winner-take-all, one-game playoff awaits the New York Yankees and Oakland Athletics in the American League Wild Card Game on Wednesday night in the Bronx.

On Tuesday afternoon, the Yankees announced that Luis Severino will get the nod to start, a decision that doesn't bring a lot of confidence with it.

Severino has not been pitching like an ace at all over the last few months, which had provided pause for the Yankees on who will start the one-game playoff on Wednesday night.

In the final 14 starts of the regular season, Severino went 6-6 with a 5.67 ERA and 90 hits allowed in 73 innings pitched. In his previous 118.1 innings to start the year, Severino was almost untouchable, going 13-2 with a 1.98 ERA and just 83 hits allowed.

The 24-year-old got the ball in last year's American League Wild Card Game against the Minnesota Twins and it almost ended in disaster. He lasted just one-third of an inning, allowing three runs on four hits before getting pulled.

The Yankees would go on to win 8-4, sparking a run to the ALCS, but this would be a dangerous game to play against an Oakland Athletics team that has five players with 23 or more home runs, including MLB leader Kris Davis, who mashed 48 in 2018.

Severino is 1-1 this season against the Athletics with a 6.23 ERA and 11 hits allowed in just 8.2 innings of work.

It might have been safer to start JA Happ, who had been masterful since being acquired from the Toronto Blue Jays. In 11 starts, he's 7-0 with a 2.69 ERA. On Sept. 4, he limited the A's to just one run on two hits in six innings during a no-decision outing.

That kind of performance, regardless of who it's from, will be just what the Yankees want as they could then turn things over to their dominant bullpen.

Metro's 2018-19 NHL preview

Predicting the biggest winners, losers and stars for the upcoming NHL season, which begins tonight.

JOE PANTORNO
joseph.pantorno@metro.us

It's amazing how much can change in a couple months.

The 2018-19 NHL season begins tonight with one of the greatest rivalries in hockey as the Montreal Canadiens meet John Tavares and the new-look Toronto Maple Leafs.

It's just an appetizer as a half-hour later, the reigning Stanley Cup-winning Washington Capitals will raise their first-ever championship banner against the Boston Bruins in the nation's capital.

Hockey fans are gearing up for a season that should see a heated race in the Atlantic Division between Boston, Toronto and the Tampa Bay Lightning; struggles for the New York Islanders and Rangers; and a ton of promise in Philadelphia from the Flyers.

Here is how we think the season will play out.

WORRIED ABOUT HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE?

Learn about a clinical study of an investigational procedure

Many people with high blood pressure try to follow a healthy diet, exercise and take medications – yet their blood pressure is still high.

Take our quiz to find out if you qualify at HBPSStudy.com or 929-334-4158

Have you experienced a life-threatening or traumatic event?

Since the trauma, have you:

- Had nightmares or flashbacks?
- Tried to avoid thinking or talking about it?
- Felt jumpy or anxious?
- Become less connected with people around you, or less interested in activities you used to enjoy?
- Blamed yourself for the trauma or what happened afterwards?

If so, you may be suffering from post-traumatic stress disorder or PTSD. The Mood and Anxiety Disorders Program at the Icahn School of Medicine at Mount Sinai in New York City is conducting a study of a rapid-acting investigational medication that may help relieve your PTSD symptoms. You may be eligible to participate if you have PTSD and are 18-65 years old.

Participation involves a thorough psychiatric and medical screening. The study lasts for at least 4 weeks. You will be compensated for your time.
